Geographically, its northwestern extremity is at the Isthmus of Tehnantepec and its southwestern extremity at the Isthmus of Panama. Politically, it includes the British colony of Belize and five independent Republics. One of the largest three is the Republic of Honduras. To the west of Honduras lie the Republics of Guatemala and Salvador, to the south of it Nicaragua and Costa Rica. The area of Honduras is about five thousand square miles larger than that of the State of Pennsylvania. Its northern coast line is about 350 miles long. Its southern coast line nearly surrounds the Bay of Fonseca. and is seventy miles long. The surface is generally mountainous, but the central part of the Republic consists of a large plateau of 3,000 to 4,000 feet elevation above sea level. The country is drained by a number of rivers, the largest of which are the Ulna, the Aguan and the Patuca. Patuca River rises in the south central portion of the Republic, flows in a general northeast direction for a distance of 300 miles, and empties into the Caribbean Sea. It is the largest river between the Mississippi and the Magdalena. The highest mountain ranges are in the northern and western parts of the country. The highest peak is Mount Congrehoi, near the north coast, which rises more than 8,000 feet above sea level. The entire country, excepting only the higher mountain peaks, is covered...
