For fifty consecutive years since the reorganization of the Society on its present basis, not to mention the years before that to which the memory of man hardly runneth, every autumn the people of the State have loved to gather at the Capital for the Great State Fair. As an institution it is one of our oldest, one of our most uplifting because stimulating, one of the most solidly fixed in the traditions and affections of North Carolinians. So this is Jubilee year, with the happy slogan, Fiftieth Great State Fair and Home-coming Jubilee, for many who have left the land of the long-leaf pine and won demand for their services to mankind in other commonwealths have indicated a desire to go to the Fair once more. It...
